Correction: Autonomy support encourages use of more-affected arm post-stroke

Sujin Kim1†, Yumi Shin1,2†, Yeonwoo Jeong1, Seungyoung Na3 and Cheol E. Han4,5*

Following publication of the original article [1], in this article there is minor changes in the figures, tables and the same has been updated

The original article has been corrected.

Accepted: 12 September 2023
Published online: 26 September 2023

Reference

Publisher’s Note
Springer Nature remains neutral with regard to jurisdictional claims in published maps and institutional affiliations.

†Sujin Kim and Yumi Shin contributed equally to this work.

The online version of the original article can be found at https://doi.org/10.1186/s12984-023-01238-0.

*Correspondence:
Cheol E. Han
cheolhan@korea.ac.kr

1Department of Physical Therapy, Jeonju University, Jeonju, South Korea
2Department of Rehabilitative and Assistive Technology, National Rehabilitation Center, Seoul, South Korea
3Department of Rehabilitation and Medicine, Ongoul Rehabilitation Hospital, Jeonju, South Korea
4Department of Electronics and Information Engineering, Korea University, Sejong, South Korea
5Interdisciplinary Graduate Program for Artificial Intelligence Smart Convergence Technology, Korea University, Sejong, South Korea